Dedication

IT seems that only a few days ago we were all together here in school. No one thought of wars and fighting, of armies and navies. However, it is all so different now. Since Pearl Harbor, everything has changed. That curly-haired fellow who used to sit in the front seat has another seat—in the cockpit of a P-38. Those boys who used to make so much noise during lunch period are in Navy Blue now. Yes, it is all so different.

Every so often these boys get leave and come back to see the rest of us. It's great to see them again. We are proud they answered their country's call when they were needed the most. They are real Americans in every sense of the word.

Now that our high school days are about to end, we are sorry that these boys cannot be present with us at the occasion of our graduation ceremonies. However, with great respect and admiration we dedicate our yearbook to these former classmates of ours who are fighting in the armed services of the United States.

A DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

WHEN in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one group of students to dissolve the Board of Educational bonds which have connected them to homework, and to assume, among the people of the earth, the separate and precarious station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitled them, a decent respect to the mangled opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the purposes and ideals which they will follow after the separation.

We hold these truths to be self evident; that all students start out equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of fire engines; that, to secure these rights, Senior Class organizations are formed among students, deriving their minute power from the consent of the faculty. That, when at last, graduation arrives and the students are on their own, they shall attempt to use to greatest advantage the knowledge which the faculty has laboriously instilled in them.

It is common fact that the greatest part of education is received in everyday life after high school is completed, although in Central some can understand "Esquire" now. Nevertheless, it is universally agreed that the good will and sincere advice of the teachers is a valuable "send off" gift when the graduates leave for their new life of independence. In cognizance of this fact, we feel obliged to reciprocate the good will. To substantiate our intentions we submit these bequeaths to a candid world.

To:

Miss O'Connor: A charm curl.

Mr. O'Brien: A collapsible drooling cup.

- Mr. Wakefield: A ration book of A's.
 Mr. Nester: Memories of Connie Kallas.
 Mr. Voegelin: A book that doesn't close.
 Mr. Eskin: A carton of alphabet noodles.
 Mr. Hegeman: An automatic ticket machine.
 Miss Kaufman: A gymsuit.
 Mr. Rehn: Shirley Roth.
 Dr. Profeta: A Democratic president.
 Mr. Muir ("Scotty"): An English accent.
 Miss Gordon: A copy of "How to Win Friends Influence People."
 Miss Jacobs: Our class of 4A boys.
 Mr. Strang: Sincere hopes for the Dodgers to win
 the "World Series."
 Mr. Eisen: A toupe.
 Mr. Katz: A dozen lessons from Madam LaZonga.
 Mr. Haeseler: A windshield wiper for his glasses.
 Mr. Lerner: A five year subscription to the "Police Gazette."
 Mr. Miller: Adler elevator shoes.

We, therefore, the class of January 1944, solemnly and probably in our right senses, declare that the members of the forenamed class are absolved from all connection with compulsory education, and that they, as free men, have the full power to stay up after 10 o'clock, contract entangling romances, and beat their heads against stone walls. For the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the soft-heartedness of the faculty when 4A marks are due, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our misfortunes, and our honor.

THE BOYS THAT CAME THROUGH

COMPLETING one of the most successful seasons in almost a decade, the 1943 football squad put Central in the lime-light and endeared themselves in the heart of every loyal Centralite. These boys, consisting of several of our own Jans of '44, finished the season with six victories and lost only two games, both against high ranking state teams.

The Class of January 1944 may always look back to this team with pride and recall some of the highlights of this exciting season. The team was triumphant over Barringer for the first time since 1933; Central received one of the three victories necessary to gain possession of the East Side-Central Technical Plaque, and the school was ranked fifth in the all-state ratings by the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association.

Many years will pass, and Central will have many finer seasons, but the Jans of '44 will never forget these boys—the boys that came through!
